Department Overview

Special Collections and University Archives (SCUA) operates as a distinct unit within the Nelson Poynter Memorial Library at USF St. Petersburg. Materials include special collections (Floridiana, rare books, personal papers, and manuscript collections) as well as the institutional archives of USFSP. SCUA is staffed by Jim Schnur, University Librarian. Approximately 60-65% of Schnur's assigned time is in the management of services and collections in SCUA. The department also benefited from the following fieldwork students who volunteered their time in 2015-2016: Jim Clark (fall 2015) and Phillip Sroka (summer 2016).

The following pages list significant departmental accomplishments in serving patrons with the collections preserved in SCUA, as well as an overview of the scope and extent of the collections within this area of the library. The personal accomplishments of the Special Collections librarian are included to illustrate service, research, and outreach activities during the fiscal year.

For a detailed breakdown of the types of information requested by patrons requiring substantial research assistance (i.e., biographical sources, historical sources, marine science/ichthyology sources, etc.), see Appendix 5. For a detailed breakdown of the types of sources SCUA staff consulted to assist patrons with their research, see Appendix 6.

Departmental Narrative:

Special Collections and University Archives of the Poynter Library experienced a busy and transitional year in 2015-2016. The year began with the librarian managing physical collections that far exceeded the space available in the storage area. Heavily used monographic collections in Floridiana and popular USF/USFSP resources have occupied cantilever stacks in the reading room since 2009 to provide for extra space in the storage room. Even with this arrangement, processing of collections continued in the reading room and nearly fifteen extra booktrucks crammed within the stacks offered a temporary solution to a long-term storage dilemma.

The librarian sought temporary remedies while he and Interim Dean Deborah Henry lobbied for additional space. Collections continued to occupy space in the first floor storage room. When we learned that work on the air conditioning system would require the removal of metal shelving pieces from the second floor utility area, the librarian removed enough metal frames, shelves, and hardware to have available for the construction of new stacks once campus officials approved additional space.

Finally, discussions during late 2015 and early 2016 gave hope that the vault in the former Dali Museum—now Harbor Hall—would become available, an area we had requested since 2010. The legislature's funding of The Weekly Challenger Initiative in the spring provided the impetus to move this project forward, as we stated that SCUA's present space could not accommodate the newspaper archive without sacrificing other collections. The actual move of shelving and collections to the vault in Harbor Hall took place during the summer of 2016.

Indeed, even before the funding for The Weekly Challenger became secure, the librarian transferred a number of collections related to Hillsborough County, the cigar industry of Ybor City, Tampa city directories, and similar items originally donated by Glenn Westfall in the early 2000s to the USF Tampa Library Special Collections Department with the donor's blessing. In exchange, USF Tampa transferred a few smaller Pinellas-based collections, including records from one of the earliest public schools in St. Petersburg.

In addition to the regular array of programs and lectures that the Special Collections librarian offers in the community and at professional gatherings, a special situation required his involvement on a USF System initiative. Members of the USF chapter of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) had launched a vigorous protest against the naming of a building on the Tampa campus in honor of former US Representative C.W. "Bill" Young, a onetime member of the Florida Legislative Investigation Committee (1956-1965), a McCarthyite witch hunting body also known as the Johns Committee. The librarian, working with USF System leadership, shared his historical expertise on Young's tenure and the legacy of the Johns Committee on the fiftieth anniversary of its demise. He participated in three forums (one at USFSP; two at USF Tampa) and was interviewed by local media (including the Oracle, Tampa Tribune, WFTS-Channel 28, and WMNF-88.5FM) to place the era in historical context.

Also, the librarian played a pivotal role as a presenter and content provider for the USFSP 50th anniversary programs, including a popular five-part "USFSP by the Decades" lecture series coordinated with J.M. "Sudsy" Tschiderer. At the same time, he also offered a four-part lecture program at Heritage Village in Largo to commemorate that institution's fortieth anniversary.

Please note that many requests involve more than one category. For example, to respond to someone interested in the historical materials related to the recently demolished Pier in St. Petersburg, the special collections librarian may examine books, photographs, old fire insurance maps, and materials from manuscript collections, as well as refer the patron to other cultural heritage institutions, such as the St. Petersburg Museum of History.
