St. Petersburg Conference on World Affairs Returns

USF St. Petersburg will once again host the annual St. Petersburg Conference on World Affairs February 20-23. Now in its sixth year, this renowned conference will bring together diplomatic, military and academic experts - along with thousands of citizens and students - to discuss the issues impacting and influencing the world today.

The 2018 Conference is free and open to the public and will include more than 35 panel discussions and presentations about key international issues.

Tiny Campus Guests Inspire Huge Conservation Effort

Working with Audubon Florida, the Florida Fish and Wildlife Commission, and architects and consultants, USF St. Petersburg has installed a new roof on the Nelson Poynter Memorial Library that incorporates an artificial habitat for a colony of nesting Least Terns. The space will support around 65 Least Terns, a threatened Florida species, who will continue to nest on campus.

University of South Florida Announces 2018 Outstanding Young Alumni and younger, including two USF St. Petersburg graduates, will be recognized as Outstanding Young Alumni for their exceptional professional and charitable contributions.

Seven University of South Florida alumni age 35

The award recipients boast an array of accomplishments, from visionary entrepreneurs changing the marketplace through innovation and tenacity to a lawyer committed to philanthropy and public service to a former Tampa Bay

Buccaneers player who has excelled in business and charity. The USF Outstanding Young Alumni will receive their awards on May 18 at a special ceremony followed by a panel discussion where they'll share some of their secrets for success.

USFSP and Tampa Bay Welcome Macedonian Delegation, Highlight Local Government and Education Systems

A delegation of Macedonian political leaders representing a diverse cross-section of the government, political parties and institutions visited USF St. Petersburg and held meetings with state and local government officials across Tampa Bay. The focus of the six-day visit was to demonstrate the democratic functioning of local and county government and education systems in the region to Macedonian officials.

Professor of Political Science Judithanne Scourfield McLauchlan hosted the delegation and was tapped due to her extensive experience in Macedonia and knowledge of its government and current political situation.
