University of South Florida.
Some Buildings to Close
To Cut Operating Expenses

To reduce operating expenses, the University of South Florida is closing some buildings completely, partially closing others and operating at minimum staffing levels for the Dec. 21-Jan. 3 holiday period.

The steps are in line with recent directives from the Florida Board of Regents to all State universities to join other segments of State government in "belt tightening" in response to increasingly pessimistic revenue projections.

The effect of these steps will be the suspension of most services at the University. Included are the following offices which will not be open to the public during this period:

- All offices in the Administration Building (Dec. 21-25), including Admissions, Financial Aids, Finance

University Will Operate At Minimum Staff Levels

Minimum staffing levels throughout the University will be maintained by encouraging all USF employees to take annual leave on Dec. 23, 26, 27, 30 and 31. Employees without sufficient leave amounts now will be permitted to take up to five days of leave in advance of accruing it. However, in no cases will employees without leave be forced to take "leave without pay." In addition, as a matter of USF policy, no employee will be required to take leave.

University employees are being consulted this week to determine preferences regarding leave-taking.

Ken Thompson, Vice President for Administrative Affairs at USF, estimated that the steps being taken to reduce operating expenses during the holidays, together with other measures being implemented for the remainder of the fiscal year, will save as much as $25,000 in utility bills. In addition, he noted that USF response to other "emergency reductions in planned spending," recently adopted by the BOR, will result in additional savings of "many thousands of dollars."

A more specific estimate is not possible at this time, he indicated. He stressed that "in implementing these reductions, every effort is being made to ensure that essential University services are maintained and that USF employees are treated fairly." He expressed concern, however, regarding the institution's capacity to continue to absorb such cutbacks without reducing the quantity and quality of educational services being offered to the public.

Outstanding Staff Awards Presented

To Marshall, Andrews, Hirschman

The second annual awards for outstanding staff employees were presented yesterday by President Mackey at the all-University Christmas party.

The awards, each of which included a $500 check, were presented to Phyllis Marshall, outstanding Ad­ ministrative and Professional Employee; John W. "Bill" Andrews, Outstanding Career Service Supervisory Employee, and Mary L. Hirschman, Outstanding Career Service Non-Supervisory Employee.

Ms. Marshall was among USF's first staff members as head resident and program assistant in student affairs in 1960. In 1965, she became director of student organizations, a position she now holds.

Andrews is presently landscaping and grounds-keeping superintendent. He joined the University as a nurseryman II in 1966 and has held the positions of nursery-landscaping supervisor, groundskeeping supervisor, and groundskeeping superintendent before being promoted to his present position in 1973.

Miss Hirschman has been a clerk IV in the College of Education since 1971. Her first job with the University was in 1966 as a business machine operator II in the Data Processing Division. In 1967, she became a key punch operator in the Computer Research Center and in 1968, a secretary II in the College of Education.

The name of each winner will be engraved on a plaque which will be placed in the USF Library.

Total or partial closing of some other facilities are currently being reviewed by deans and other officials involved.

Sarasota Campus Programmed
For Unique, Dual Mission

The Sarasota Campus of USF is expected to get under way next year with a unique, dual mission.

The University will provide course work for juniors, seniors and beginning graduates as it does on its St. Petersburg and Fort Myers campuses.

At the same time, a separate New College of USF will be established and supported with private funds to continue the programs for which New College gained national stature. How this will be carried out is outlined in USF's Statement of Operating Philosophy approved by the Board of Regents at its West Palm Beach meeting.

Here are excerpts from the statement:

"It is anticipated that the New College Foundation, Inc. Trustees would serve as an advisory board to the president of USF regarding policies pertaining to the educational program of the New College of USF.

"The New College Foundation, Inc. Trustees would have the responsibility for raising funds to aid in support of the New College of USF...

"It is anticipated that the chief academic officer of New College of USF would report directly to the administrative head of USF Sarasota Campus.

"Assuming that the New College Foundation, Inc.
Trustees provide adequate funds to support the educational program, USF would initiate the New College educational goals of that program.

"Assuming that the New College Foundation, Inc.
Trustees provide adequate resources to fund the New College Educational program at a level requiring a faculty the size of the current New College faculty, it would be the intention of the administration of USF to initiate its operation of the New College program with the present faculty members of the New College...if a reduction of funds causes the educational program to be reduced, or should the basic thrust of the program change, it would become necessary to reduce the size of the faculty, the staff, and the scope of supporting services.

"Because maintenance of the academic program will depend upon funds to be provided by the New College Foundation, Inc. Trustees, faculty members of the New College of USF will be appointed on grant-funded positions. As is the case with any employment by the University that is dependent upon funding from a source external to the State University System, grant-line status would mean for the faculty of the New College of USF that:

"All faculty positions funded by the New College Foundation, Inc. Trustees would exist only so long as the necessary private funds were made available to USF.

"Such positions would not be tenure-earning...
