First 'New College of USF' Class Graduates Tomorrow

Dr. Robert A. Goldwin, special consultant to the President of the United States and special advisor to the Secretary of Defense, will speak at the commencement ceremonies of New College of USF tomorrow. A graduating class of 70 will be the first to receive degrees since New College became a part of USF last July.

Dr. Goldwin, graduate of a small liberal arts college, St. Johns, will be making a return visit to New College to speak. He was a key speaker at a community event, celebrating New College joining the State University System, held in Van Wezel Performing Arts Hall in February 1975.

Awarding degrees to the New College students will be Dr. Lester W. Tuttle, Jr., Dean and Administrator of Regional Campuses of USF. New College provost Dr. George H. Mayer will also deliver special remarks to the graduates at the 10 a.m. ceremonies in Hamilton Center on the USF Sarasota Campus.

Dr. Goldwin has been the special consultant to President Ford since December 1974. His duties include working with the Domestic Council and others in the White House to help assure the flow of information, ideas and suggestions to the President, especially from individuals outside the government.

Recently, Dr. Goldwin assumed additional duties as special advisor to Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld.

Dr. Goldwin had earlier associations with both President Ford and Secretary Rumsfeld. From 1960-1969, he taught political science and was director of the Public Affairs Conference Center at Kenyon College and the University of Chicago. Among those attending seminars at the center were then-Congressman Gerald Ford and Donald Rumsfeld.

Regents Ax Graduate Programs
In Leisure Studies, ISS, German

The BOR Monday in Orlando adopted guidelines for minimum class sizes for the State universities but did not act to reduce teacher education enrollments, an issue covered in the 1976 Appropriations Act.

In a related action, designed to cut operating costs, the Board approved the phasing out of USF's master's program in leisure studies and the elimination of the University's graduate programs in German and interdisciplinary social sciences. Vice President Carl Riggs said no permanent faculty would be affected by eliminations from the programs.

Sixty-five USF faculty members were granted tenure by the Board, including Dr. David Smith whose appointment as dean of the College of Arts and Letters was confirmed. (Other USF faculty who were tenured are listed elsewhere in INTERCOM.)

Class size guidelines call for minimums of 15 for lower division, 12 for upper division and seven for graduate studies. Academic vice presidents have authority to grant waivers for up to five percent of

Members of the USF Faculty and Staff

As we complete the 1975-76 academic year, I want to thank all of you for your dedication and hard work. During this, USF's most difficult year in history, we found ourselves faced with severe budget problems, and at the same time an increasing demand for our services from a growing student body and an expanding community.

Even though the year has been trying, we have made progress. Our faculty reputation continues to grow as evidenced by the increasing numbers of awards of recognition bestowed upon them and the record number of research dollars they have attracted to the institution. The large number of high school valedictorians and merit scholars attending USF this year reflects the increasing quality of our student body; and our A & P and career service staff have performed exceptionally well in light of new bureaucratic requirements and heavy workloads. In addition, we have been able to dedicate and use two outstanding new University facilities -- the Medical Center and the Library.

The University of South Florida is an institution with a great future. The fact that we continue to make progress, even under adverse circumstances, is proof of the strength of the institution and of its faculty and staff.

Whether you are on campus or away, I wish all of you an enjoyable summer.

Sincerely,
Cecil Mackey
President

USF, 6 Staffers Profit from Ideas

Six USF Career Service employees were presented a total of $1,371 from the State of Florida last week after their respective suggestions were accepted by the State Awards Program.

The largest single award winner was Samuel Eubank, Jr., Professional Engineer I, who suggested the construction and use of a testing device in servicing all street, walkway and parking lot fixtures. His suggestion was judged to save the State $3,460 and his check for $346 represented 10 percent of that amount. Because Eubank's award exceeds $250, he will travel to Tallahassee to be recognized by the Governor and State Cabinet.

Another winner, Gregory P. Fulton, Photography Supervisor, received a check for $334 for his suggestion to install a Kodak processing line for slides in Educational Resources. Fulton met with the Governor and Cabinet last month.

Custodial Supervisor Dorothy Davis netted $91 for her suggestion that broom brushes containing sil­icon carbide be used for stripping and scrubbing floors. It was judged that her suggestion would save money as well as several employee hours over the previous method of scrubbing and stripping floors.
