Personnel Services Gets U. of Dayton Director

Theodore J. Woloson, director of personnel at the University of Dayton for the past 11 years, has been appointed director of USF's Personnel Services, effective Aug. 25.

Woloson, 53, is the 1975-76 national president of the College and University Personnel Association. He has served in a number of positions in the association for over 20 years.

A native of Detroit, Woloson received his bachelor's and master's degrees, both in business administration and personnel management, from Wayne State University. From 1950-64 he was personnel officer at Wayne State.

At USF, he will be responsible for the planning and implementation of all phases of the personnel operation including: staffing and recruiting, fringe benefits, employee training programs, employee relations, classification and pay, and management services.

"We are indeed fortunate to have attracted a person of Ted Woloson's caliber," said Kenneth W. Thompson, USF vice president for administration. "All of us at USF look forward to working with him." Woloson and his wife, Mary Grace, who currently teaches school in Dayton, have four children.
