University of South Florida.
USF receives Freedom Shrine; Named Bicentennial Campus

A public ceremony featuring the dedication of a Freedom Shrine of American historical documents presented to USF by the Exchange Club of Tampa, and presentation of the scroll designating USF as an official Bicentennial Campus, will be held at noon Feb. 16 in the Library.

The ceremony, coordinated by USF's Bicentennial Committee, will be in the first floor card catalogue area where about 28 reprinted, framed documents, such as the Mayflower Compact, Declaration of Independence, Emancipation Proclamation and the Japanese surrender in World War II have recently been hung. These documents, known as the Freedom Shrine, will be officially presented to USF by Lon Hatton, local Exchange Club president. Fred Learey, chairman of the Hillsborough County Bicentennial Commission, will present the scroll designating USF as a Bicentennial Campus.

A brief talk on freedom will be given by an officer from MacDill Air Force Base. Also on the program will be President Cecil Mackey and Student Government President Harry Fink.

The Freedom Shrine is a national Exchange Club project begun in the 1950's "to create a spirit to meet and beat communism," according to Joseph Obusek, local Freedom Shrine chairman. Freedom has continued as one of the basic foundations of the Exchange Club, Obusek explained, and it is being expounded this year as part of the Bicentennial. About a dozen Freedom Shrines are now in Tampa at schools and other public locations.

From the BOR "Memo":

Chancellor E.T. York, Jr. has been named by the National Academy of Sciences to head a special study requested by President Gerald Ford to recommend ways to improve capabilities for increasing world-wide food production.

In response to the request by President Ford, the National Academy established a task force, chaired by Dr. York, to make a comprehensive analysis and develop recommendations concerning ways to improve agricultural research organizations both in the United States and throughout the world and to strengthen programs for the development of agricultural research personnel.

Dr. York said his 15-member task force will be divided into three sub-groups concerned with (a) research organizations within the U.S., (b) global research organizations; and (c) research manpower developments. A report is expected to be ready by early fall, 1976.
