Town Meeting To Provide USF Link With Community

Town Meeting USF, a program to bring together any interested persons from the University community to discuss the issues and underlying challenges facing the community and to propose practical solutions for them, is scheduled for noon-8 p.m. Jan. 23 at USF.

It is planned in the format used by the Institute for Cultural Affairs (ICA) which has planned more than 500 town meetings across the U.S. In the broadest sense, the meeting is designed to create a new social means of allowing local citizens to effectively participate in the decision-making processes of the University. By the end of the program, the 200-400 participants will produce a 20-50 page document detailing their efforts, and proposing ways to resolve the problems which are identified.

Representatives of the Faculty, Career Service and Student Senates, other campus groups and interested faculty, staff, administrators and students have formed a steering committee to plan the meeting.

Anyone who is interested in participating may contact Town Meeting, ADM 151. The steering committee meets each Friday at noon in ADM 154, the Student Affairs conference room.

According to Troy Collier, steering committee coordinator, everyone from students to administrators has misunderstandings, suspicions and questions about the University. It is hoped, Collier explained, that the meeting will offer a free exchange of ideas and information to clarify specific and general problems within USF.

There will be no pre-arranged agenda or issues slated for discussion. Instead, those who choose to participate will suggest topics they think are most important for the on-going life of USF.

Award Given To Documentary

A bicentennial television documentary produced in Tampa and seen recently on WUSF-TV and WFLA-TV has won the Golden Eagle Award in national competition and will officially represent the United States in 1977 international competition.

"If You Don't Come in Sunday, Don't Come in Monday" was one of three productions in the documentary category to receive the award at ceremonies recently in Washington, D.C., sponsored by CINE, the Council on International Non-theatrical Events.

John Hershberger, station manager of WUSF-TV, produced and directed the documentary which was co-produced, researched and written by Patricia Colbert (Hershberger). Manpower Education Institute, Inc. of New York was the sponsor.

"Commuter" Magazine Published Here

USF is the new publishing location for the Commuter, a national publication focusing on innovative activities and services aimed at the commuter population of colleges and universities throughout the country.

Formerly, the 2-year-old quarterly was published at the University of Maryland.

"It's a communication resource network for 300 institutions of higher learning representing diverse commuter student population needs and programming," said "Commuter" editor Dr. Chuck Hewitt, assistant to the vice president for student affairs.

"The Commuter" is a publication of the National Clearinghouse For Commuter Students, an organization that monitors commuter activities, services, and research efforts of U.S. universities.

One of the articles in the first issue describes the development and success of the Commuter Rooter organization at USF.
